Bev Bassoli also started her own business called Bev's Note Cards where she took a small picture and put it on a piece of folded parchment with a matching envelope. Bud Bassoli said one of her dedicated customers was Atticus Bookstore in New Haven.

"She did that for about five years and the alumni from Yale loved getting these cards because she had a certain theme," Bud Bassoli said.

Continuing her legacy

Bud Bassoli said sharing Bev Bassoli's photography on Facebook has been "amaz-

"People have said things like, 'It's like Christmas Eve on Thursdays, waiting for that picture," Bud Bassoli said. "Also things like, 'It's not the weekend unless I see that picture."

Pat Harriman said that Bud Bassoli's posts in Positively Wallingford have been getting hundreds of likes. Pat and Wavne Harriman created Positively Wallingford on to Hurricane Sandy. Pat Harriman confirmed on March 1, that the group has over

Oct. 27, 2012, as a response

"He's been getting a very positive response from the community," Pat Harriman 20,000 members.

One of Bud and Bev Bassoli's sons, Kyle Bassoli, said that the support from the community has been great.

Bud Bassoli "is always really excited to show me the comments and the amount of people that have liked the post and the people that have taken the extra time to write a little bit lengthier comments to him," Kyle Bassoli said. "I think it's really healing."

Bud Bassoli added that his wife's legacy has continued in other ways as well. In November, a video that was shot by Bud Bassoli about 30 years ago is now in a Duracell Batteries commercial.

"Duracell used a video of my mom giving me a Gameboy for my birthday," said Steve Bassoli, one of their sons. "I got (the Gameboy) and I proceeded to hug her and tackle her and put her in a headlock when I was like

And for the Holiday Stroll next year, Bud Bassoli will be compiling some of Bev Bassoli's photography to showcase at Harriman Real Estate's office.

"Bud was very excited when I asked him if he'd like to do an art show of her photography at our office in early December during the Holiday Stroll. We are very excited to offer his wife's photography to a wider audience," Pat Harriman said.

Bud and Bev Bassoli met on Dec. 26, 1975 and Bud Bassoli said "we knew at that moment that we were meant to be together."

"I hope to have Bev's legacy live on by sharing her beautiful pictures," Bud Bassoli said.

way. Those projects can still move around."

At $17.4 million, HVAC improvements represent about 34% of the five-year total and about 22% of the total for the 2023-24 fiscal year, per district data.

One major-ticket item is a $600,000 ask in order to replace the boilers at Dodd Middle School. Richard Clavet, director of Facilities Services for the District, explained that Dodd's boiler room was built close to the groundwater line. While two high-capacity sump pumps were part of that design, over the years water infiltration has negatively affected the boilers, which are 23 years old.

"In addition to the normal wear and tear on the boiler from the inside, the exterior components of the boilers have also degraded, including the gas trains, the circulating pumps, any ancillary system that's associated with the boilers," said Clavet.

He added that facilities staff recently have had to deal with gas leaks, including carbon monoxide, from the segmented cast-iron boilers. "It's just old and it's time for a replacement," he said, of the system.

Clavet recommended that the District purchase condensing boilers, calling them "easy to move, easy to install, and a lot more fuel-efficient to boot," than older cast-iron models. He also mentioned that his staff has taken steps to mitigate the moisture issue at Dodd, which should add lifespan to the heating plant.

Masciana pointed out that the District has asked local legislators to advocate for grant funding regarding school HVAC projects. If the 50% reimbursement rate were to be approved, the boiler work could be accomplished without a voter referendum or recourse to emergency funds, per Clavet and Masciana.

"Whenever there is a grant opportunity, we certainly submit a grant request for it and we generally get it, but the grants are not big enough to offset what we're looking at here in the fiveyear plan," Masciana told the Board.

Another major item is $250,000 for roof ladders required by OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration). "It's not a matter of replacing them with a fabricated rung ladder like our fathers used to climb up on a roof," said Clavet. "Today, OSHA requires that they're inclined what they call a ship's ladder."

Clavet explained that beyond the safety justification, "it's an important factor in trying to promote preventative maintenance as well," making the roof "accessible for the technicians to safely mobilize from one roof section to the other.

He also indicated that they could "start with one (ladder)," and "work our way forward," allocating the money over multiple years.

"The ladders that are in the worst condition and the ones that pose the greatest risk to staff are the ones that I would have to prioritize," Clavet said.

Other maintenance, such as masonry work, cafeteria upgrades, flooring, and roof repairs are also part of the anticipated spending in upcoming years. The majority of the work is to be done at Highland School, Dodd Middle School, Cheshire High School, and Doolittle

"By no means are we putting forth projects where we're throwing money away in year-one, for example, that would be better used by other parts of projects down the road. That's not the case. Some things have to happen," said Board Chair Tony Perugini, offering his support for the requests.

As Clavet put it, "Our modus operandi is, 'What can't we do without?' That's how we ultimately end up making our baseline decisions.

The Town Council will take up the matter at a future meeting. Expenditures over $500,000 would have to be approved by voters.
